5-1. Urban Search and Rescue Training in Singapore

Asia is one of the most disaster-prone regions in the world. The natural disasters that have occurred in Asia in recent years have been the most severe, prolonged and widespread ever experienced in the region. Moreover, regional vulnerability tends to increase due to the rapid urbanization, insufficient speed in building an infrastructure capable of coping with urbanization, coupling of independent risk sources (interaction of natural hazards with chemical, technological, lifestyle, and social risks), and the insufficient management capacity.

The Singaporean government held an annual training course for search and rescue officers, and over the past nine years, the course included trainees from outside Singapore. Training was provided the search-and-rescue expertise required in urban disaster situations. The training facility complex of the Civil Defence Academy (CDA) of the Singapore Civil Defence Force (SCDF) is one of the most advanced facilities in Asia. In an effort to utilize their expertise and facilities, ADRC has invited fire fighters and rescuers from member countries to participate in this training course since FY 2001.

Following table is the list of participants in past. The number of participants reached 53 in total.
